Prayer and Our Common Life

Sometimes I pray with my eyes wide open. When I do, I often see the kaleidoscope of possibilities. I also see the challenges ahead. Fresh from the morning news, the complexities of life and the massive needs in our world, I confess I sometimes have no idea what to pray for. And as I learn more about praying for myself and others, I am trying to shut up and listen.

Of course, I pray for All Saints’ Parish, so much a part of my life during the past year. One specific prayer has imbedded itself in my devotions in recent years. It’s from the Book of Common Prayer (page 817), and like the best prayers, it is apt and direct and keeps my own sentiments and irrelevancies safely to the side: “Almighty and everliving God, ruler of all things in heaven and earth, hear my prayer for this parish family. Strengthen the faithful, arouse the careless, and restore the penitent. Grant us all things necessary for our common life, and bring us all to be of one heart and mind within your holy Church; through Jesus Christ our Lord.”

More and more this prayer seems right to me. It seems to ask God to give us what we need. It describes us all — faithful, careless, penitent.

Then there is that appropriate and wide open request that God “grant us all things necessary for our common life.” In an increasingly fractured and contentious world, to be part of a common life is a rare and wonderful thing. This is something we don’t make up and provide on our own. This is the common life made holy by God’s Spirit, and it is in direct continuity with the community of disciples called by Jesus and the first Christian churches who, as portrayed in Acts, “held all things in common.”

In all kinds of large and small ways, we maintain and build up our common life at All Saints’. One visible way is through the Annual Meeting of the parish held today at 9 am, when we hear of the good news happening through our congregation and we officially choose new leaders for the Vestry.

So we celebrate today our common life. And we pray. And we give. And we serve. We invite you to join us in these important aspects of being the community of Jesus!

Interim Rector
